

Tuna Taşan-Kok

PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Tuna Taşan-Kok is Professor of Urban Governance and Planning and Research Programme Leader of the Urban Planning Group at University of Amsterdam. She is an urban planner and social geographer who has worked in several top-ranking academic organisations and is actively involved in many extensive international research networks. She is interested in analysing urban transformation from multiple social geographical and spatial planning perspectives. Her research embraces urban governance, property-led urban development dynamics, and spatial organisation through social relations. She has initiated and coordinated international research collaborations and has led research projects which were awarded funding: a prestigious multi-million EU grant (FP7) as well as other international (Urban Europe, Euronet etc.) and local grants (NWO, FWO etc.) amounting to € 9,000,000 in funds, more than € 1,800,000 of which going to the research organisations she had been working for. She was recently the principal investigator of a project funded by NWO-FAPESP-ESRC, known as PARCOUR (Public Accountability to Residents in Contractual Urban Regeneration). As of January 2019, Taşan-Kok is one of the coordinating partners on a new research project called What is Governed in Cities? Residential Investment Landscapes and the Governance and Regulation of Housing Production (WHIG) funded by Open Research Area (ORA). She is the founder and chair of UGoveRN (Urban Governance Research Network), which is an interdisciplinary academic platform aims to contribute to urban governance studies by establishing strong and long-lasting relationships and innovative insights between researchers and practitioners. As of 2022 she is also the Chair of IJURR (International Journal of Urban and Regional Research) Foundation. Her publishing output is broad-based and international: peer-reviewed articles in academic journals with high impact factors; books contracted by prestigious academic publishers such as Springer and Routledge; as well as handbooks with policy recommendations, commissioned by the European Union, that serve to guide international policy networks. Her educational activity is wide-ranging, having designed, coordinated and taught courses at all academic levels (bachelor, master and PhD) in the disciplines of urban planning and human geography but also supervising numerous PhD and master theses. She founded, coordinated and taught a full curriculum in the human geography track at the bachelor level, designed and coordinated several courses in urban planning at the bachelor and MSc levels and taught at numerous graduate schools across Europe as a guest lecturer. She is experienced in building academic teams and managing groups of researchers. Recognition for her expertise has prompted invitations to give keynote speeches and guest lectures and serve on award and grant committees around the globe. Tasaan-Kok is the forthcoming Chair of the IJURR Foundation (as of March 2022) and sits in the boards of several high-impact journals including EURS, IJURR, Cities, Journal of Planning Literature, and EJSD.
